2. Task-to-tool picker (tick the tasks that take most of your prep time)

If you need to...	Start with	Tried it?
☐ Turn my slides, handouts or PDFs into review quizzes, flashcards or study guides	StudySim
☐ Plan lessons, write worksheets, draft IEP goals	MagicSchool
☐ Give feedback on student writing inside Google Docs	Brisk Teaching
☐ Use a flexible assistant for anything, free	ChatGPT for Teachers
☐ Stay inside Google Workspace and Classroom	Gemini for Education
☐ Plan around Khan Academy content	Khanmigo
☐ Level a reading or add scaffolds	Diffit
☐ Make classroom games and graphic organizers on a small budget	Eduaide

3. Safe-use checklist (run it before anything reaches students)

- ☐ My school or district has approved this tool (or I am using it only for my own prep)
- ☐ I read the vendor's privacy page, not only the marketing page
- ☐ No student names, IDs, grades or other identifiable information in my prompt
- ☐ I checked every fact, date and answer key in the output
- ☐ I checked the reading level and vocabulary against my class
- ☐ I removed anything that does not match my curriculum or my own materials
- ☐ I saved the final version where colleagues can reuse it

AI can make mistakes. Treat every output as a first draft. Your district's data agreement decides what you can share with a tool.

4. Weekly time log (which tool actually saves you time?)

Week of	Task	Tool used	Minutes before	Minutes with AI	Keep using? (Y/N)
